The 1988-89 Florida State University Fact Book provides the most current data available for a general description of the activities of the university. Student information is current through the Fall 1988 semester, or the 1987-88 academic year for annual figures. Other data are as current as could be obtained at the time of publication. The purpose of this book is twofold: to provide the university community with useful reference information, and, to provide outside users not only with reference materials but also with useful and, hopefully, interesting facts about the university and region.

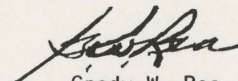

As you use this Fact Book, please advise this office of any additions or modifications which you feel would improve the contents of this book. Your comments are always welcome and suggestions for future content will be gratefully received.

This book was prepared by the Institutional Research section of the Budget and Analysis Department and coordinated by Mr. Mark Pritchett. Sincere thanks are extended to those offices that provided data or otherwise assisted in the production of this Fact Book; Pam Morris and the staff of the University Publications Office provided valuable assistance. A special acknowledgement and thanks are extended to Mrs. Martee Wills for her permission to quote from her book Seminole History, a Pictorial History of Florida State University.

Overview

The Florida State University is a public, fully accredited, coeducational institution of the nine-member State University System of Florida. Located in Tallahassee, Florida's capital city, the University affords students and faculty opportunities for interaction with state and Federal agencies for internships, research, and part-time employment, as well as a myriad of social, cultural, and recreational activities. The main campus is located on 347 acres in Tallahassee with other facilities located in Leon, Bay, and Franklin counties.

With 15 colleges and schools, students may take courses of study leading to the baccalaureate degree in 93 fields, to the master's degree in 96 fields, and to the doctorate in 65 fields. The academic divisions are the Colleges of Arts and Sciences, Business, Communication, Education, Engineering, Home Economics, Law, and Social Science; and the Schools of Criminology, Library and Information Studies, Music, Nursing, Social Work, Theatre, and, Visual Arts and Dance.

Over 80.3 percent of the students enrolled at the university attend full time. Undergraduates comprise 76 percent and graduate students 18 percent of the total enrollment of 26,025 students in the fall of 1988. The average age of all students is 23; of undergraduates, 22; and of graduate students, 32.

The State University System (SUS) operates under the supervision of the Florida Department of Education. The Florida State University is governed through the 13-member State Board of Regents which is composed of the Commissioner of Education (ex officio), and 12 Florida citizens, including one SUS student.

The Board of Regents is responsible for adopting system-wide rules and policies; planning for the system's future needs and development; reviewing and evaluating instructional, research, and service programs at the universities; coordinating program development among the nine member universities; and monitoring the fiscal performance of the universities.

Research and Special Programs

The Florida State University has built a reputation as a strong research center in both the sciences and the humanities. It is expected that more than $50 million in external funds will be generated this year by the university faculty and administration as supplements to state funds used for research. These external funds are in the form of contracts and grants from private foundations, industries, and government agencies, and are used to support research, improve research facilities, and provide stipends for graduate students.

Florida State is well known in the natural sciences for its basic research programs in biology, chemistry, meteorology, nuclear science, oceanography, physics, and psychology. Strong basic and applied research programs are also found in computer science, geology, mathematics, and statistics.

As a nationally recognized center of excellence in graduate training in the visual and performing arts, the University offers professional training in music, theatre and dance performance and theory.

In addition to on-campus programs, the university offers a wide variety of overseas study opportunities for students during the regular academic year, as well as in special summer programs. These include the Florence, Italy and London, England programs during the academic year; the Florence Summer Program; Panama Canal Branch Campus; Hospitality Administration Summer Program in Switzerland; Center for Yugoslav-American Studies, Research, and Exchanges; Summer Term in Law at Oxford, England, and the University of the West Indies; San Jose, Costa Rica Summer Program; and field excavations in Chianti, Italy.

Florida State University has both an Air Force and an Army Reserve Officers' Training Corps (ROTC) program. FSU students may apply for admission to the Navy ROTC Program offered through Florida Agricultural and Mechanical University.

The Florida State Computing Center, one of the largest research computing centers in the South, supports scientific research on campus with its Control Data Corporation Cyber 170-760 and 170-730 computers, and a complete PLATO system of computer-based instruction. Supercomputer applications are run on a Cyber 205 with a Cyber 835 front end file server.

The FSU Supercomputer Computations Research Institute serves supercomputing research and training needs of faculty and students in Florida and offers services to researchers throughout the country through a satellite-based communications network. The installation of a CDC Cyber 205 in 1985 made the University the country's fifth university to have on-campus access to a supercomputer. In 1987, the Institute became the nation's first recipient of the ETA-10 Supercomputer.

Robert Manning Strozier Library, with over 1.7 million books and periodicals and a special microfilm collection of over 3 million microforms, complements the research facilities on campus.

Among the special programs which have won national or international distinction in research are the Program in Nuclear Research, Institute for Molecular Biophysics, FSU Marine Laboratory, Center for Music Research, Learning Systems Institute, FSU Proton-Induced X-Ray Emission (PIXE) Laboratory, and FSU Institute of Science and Public Affairs.

Seal of The Florida State University

The seal of The Florida State University, which was designed by the combined talents of the Arts and Classics Departments, had its origins in the first decade of the 20th century during the administration of President Albert A. Murphree.

The torches of the seal symbolize the fire given to man by the Greek God Prometheus. This fire enabled man to elevate himself above the animals and become human. The torches of the FSU seal symbolize the purpose of the University: the passing on of knowledge from generation to generation. The torch on the left is Vires: strength of all kinds, physical, moral and intellectual. The center torch is Artes: that which we acquire--knowledge which transcends skill, the appreciation of beauty. The torch on the right is Mores: customs, character and tradition. Through these three ideals the student is educated physically, mentally and morally.

The seal first appeared on the cover of the 1910-11 catalogue.

A Brief History of the State of Florida and the University

The State of Florida and the City of Tallahassee

Thousands of years of Indian occupancy preceded the European discovery of the Florida peninsula. An estimated 100,000 native Americans were living here at the time of its discovery by Juan Ponce de Leon in early 1513. As Ponce de Leon's arrival coincided with the Spring Pascua Florida festivities in Spain, he named the new land "Florida," which meant "filled with flowers." La Florida was also explored by another Spanish adventurer--Hernando de Soto. It is believed that De Soto and his army of over 600 men spent the winter of 1539-40 in an abandoned Apalachee Indian village located in what is now the city of Tallahassee.

Prior to 1821, Florida had consisted of two Spanish colonies that were ceded to Great Britain in the settlement of the Seven Years' War (1756-1763). In 1821 President James Monroe appointed Andrew Jackson as territorial governor. One of the new governor's first acts was to organize the territory into two counties, Escambia and St. Johns, with the Suwannee River serving as the dividing line. (In 1822, two more counties were added--Duval in the east and Jackson in the west.) The legislative council met at Pensacola, the capital of West Florida, in 1822, and at St. Augustine, the former capital of East Florida, in 1823. As these two chief settlements of the territory were separated by 400 miles of wilderness, it was desirable to select a central site as a capital. Two commissioners appointed by Governor William Pope Duval selected the then uninhabited area known as Tallahassee as the site for the permanent capital and the governor proclaimed it the capital on March 4, 1824. The territorial council met there for the first time in November of that year. Tallahassee had been the site of Indian settlements prior to and during the Colonial Era. Its name is a Creek Indian phrase generally believed to mean "old town" or "old fields." Florida was admitted to the union as the twenty-seventh state on March 3, 1845.

The Florida State University

Plans for higher education in Florida began in 1823 when the legislative council of the territory set aside for sale one township in East Florida and one in West Florida to support seminaries. In 1851, the State Legislature authorized the all-male Seminary West of the Suwannee. The property of the Florida Institute in Tallahassee (created in 1851) was offered to the state as a site for its new western seminary. The Legislature accepted the offer and the first classes were held in 1857. In 1858 females were admitted in a separate department called the Female Institute which operated, with its own Principal, until 1882 when the Seminary became coeducational.

During the Civil War, the 1863 Legislature passed an act changing the institution's name to The Florida Military and Collegiate Institute. Cadets from this institute fought in the Battle of Natural Bridge south of Tallahassee in 1865. As a result of this participation, Florida State University's ROTC unit is entitled to add a battle streamer to its ROTC unit flag. It is one of only three university ROTC units in the U.S. to have this distinction. In summer 1865, Federal troops occupied the Seminary buildings. The Female Department, inactive during the war, resumed activity in 1866. In 1901 the name of The West Florida Seminary was changed to the Florida State College, and the first master's degree was offered the following year.

In 1905, through the Buckman Act, the Legislature reorganized higher education in Florida, establishing a school for male students in Gainesville, and a school for female students in Tallahassee. Florida State College in Tallahassee became the female school and was named the Florida Female College. This name was objectionable to friends and supporters of the college, thus in 1909 it was renamed the Florida State College for Women (F.S.C.W.).

In 1946, a flood of applicants seeking admission to the University of Florida created a crisis situation as the number desiring admission was one-third more than could be accommodated. As a result, a branch accommodating 500 men was opened in Tallahassee at Dale Mabry Field, a deactivated army installation. In 1947, the Legislature took further action and designated both the University of Florida and the Florida State College for Women as coeducational, at the same time changing the name of F.S.C.W. to The Florida State University.

The Mission Statement of the Florida State University

The Florida State University is a comprehensive, graduate-research university offering undergraduate, graduate, advanced graduate and professional programs of study, conducting extensive research, and providing service to the public. Its primary role is to serve as a center for advanced graduate and professional studies while emphasizing extensive research and providing excellence in undergraduate programs.

In accordance with the university's mission, faculty members have been selected for their commitment to excellence in teaching, their ability in research, and their interest in public service. Among the faculty are recipients of many national and international honors, including six members of National Academy of Sciences.

Given its history, location, and accomplishments, the university does not expect major changes in its mission during the next decade. Rather, it sees further refinement of that mission with concentration on quality in its teaching, research, and public service. Areas upon which the university has established its reputation have been identified for special emphasis and quality improvement. Included in the natural sciences are the four components of the Science Development Grant--physics, chemistry, psychobiology, and statistics--together with the physical, biological, and mathematical sciences closely related to them. Enhancement of the fine and performing arts began with the establishment of the Center for Music Research in the already prestigious School of Music and includes strengthened programs in Theatre, Dance and the Visual Arts. Within the humanities, the Departments of English, Philosophy, Religion, and Humanities are being strengthened. Special emphasis in the policy sciences has been directed to the College of Social Sciences' Departments of Economics, Geography, Political Science, Public Administration, Sociology, Urban and Regional Planning, and to its Policy Science Center and public policy components of the School of Criminology, the School of Social Work, and the College of Education.

The university's location in the State's capital provides great opportunity for service and interaction between governmental agencies and the social science and professional schools.

As a major comprehensive residential state university, Florida State attracts students from every county in Florida, every state in the nation, and 112 foreign countries. The university has a commitment to high admission standards that ensure quality in its student body, which currently includes some 150 National Merit and National Achievement scholars, as well as other students with superior creative talents. The majority of students are pursuing full-time courses of study in normal progression from high school or undergraduate institutions. Graduate students comprise 20 percent of the student body. The median age of all students is 21, and only about 21 percent, mostly graduate students, are over 25 years old.

The Florida State University - Strategic Planning and Budgeting, The Strategic Plan April 1986

Note: The mission statement was adopted in 1982, and readopted in March 1986. (The last paragraph quoted verbatim, contains information that was correct when written; specific numbers, ages, and averages cited may have changed slightly since then.)

Faculty Senate

The nature of faculty involvement in the governance system of Florida State University is set forth in the Constitution of the university, which designates the Faculty Senate as the basic legislative body of the institution. This structure has been in place since May, 1931, when an amendment to the institution's constitution establishing the Senate was adopted by the general faculty and approved by the Board of Control of the state. A number of major amendments have been made since that time relating to elections, committees and other matters. Prior to 1974 the President of the university was the presiding officer of the Senate, but an amendment that year changed the procedure to stipulate that the Senate elect annually its own President from the elected Senators comprising the body.

The Faculty Senate is composed of at least one elected representative from each college and school and one representative each from the Librarians and the Developmental Research School. Except for the two latter representatives, only full-time instructors, assistant professors, associate professors, and professors are eligible for representation in and election to the Senate. Senators serve two-year terms which begin at the April meeting of the Senate, at which time the President of the Senate is elected. The Steering Committee is composed of seven members elected by the voting members of the Senate to staggered two-year terms; the President of the Senate serves as chair of the committee.

The Faculty Senate formulates measures for maintaining a comprehensive educational policy and for maximum use of the University's intellectual resources. It determines and defines University-wide policies on academic matters, including Liberal Studies policy, admission, grading standards, and requirements for the awarding of degrees. The Senate may also formulate opinions on any subject of interest to the University and adopt resolutions thereon.

The current seal of the state was first designated by the 1868 Legislature. The specifications included "That a Seal of the size of the American silver dollar, having in the center thereof a view of the sun's rays over a highland in the distance, a cocoa tree, a steamboat on water, and an Indian female scattering flowers in the foreground, encircled by the words 'Great Seal of the State of Florida: In God we trust...'. Only one official change has been made since 1868, the 1970 legislature changing the cocoa tree to the Sabal palmetto palm which had been designated as the State Tree in 1953.

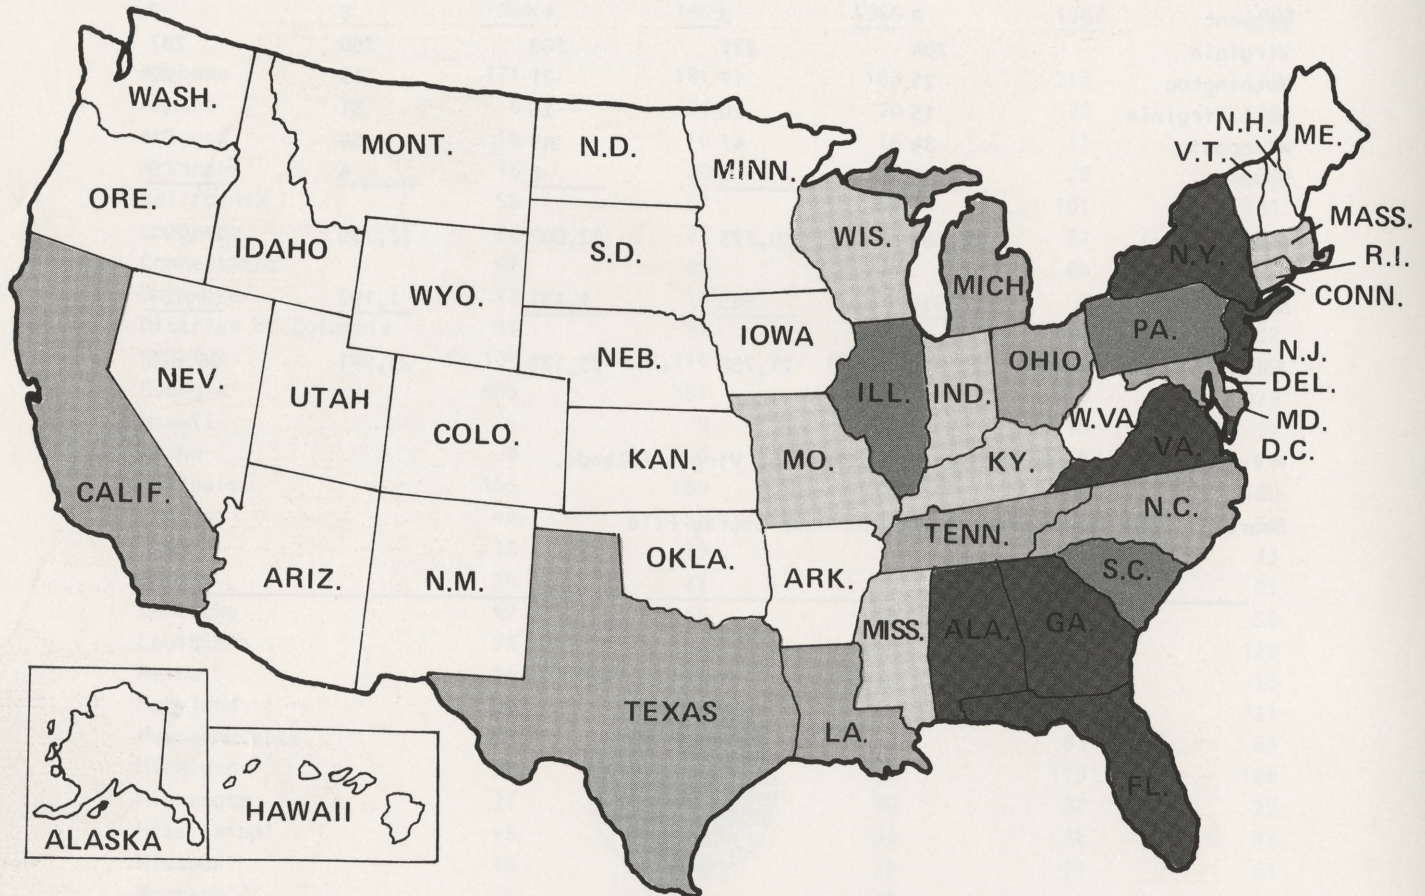

Stylistic changes were made through the years, one example being the replacement of the steamboat by more modern vessels. The mountains in the background of the original seal were removed since mountains do not exist anywhere in Florida. The clothing worn by the Indian maiden has also changed to be more historically authentic, for instance, removing the feather headdress shown initially since only Indian males wore headdresses.

FLORIDA COUNTIES: HISTORICAL NOTES

There are presently 67 counties in Florida. The first two were created in 1821, when Military Governor Andrew Jackson divided east and west Florida into Escambia and St. Johns counties.

Fayette County, located in a "V" between the Apalachicola and Chipola rivers, is the only Florida county to pass out of existence. It was created in 1832 and abolished in 1834.

Leon County, location of The Florida State University, is named for Juan Ponce de Leon, the Spanish explorer who also gave Florida its name. Leon County was the seventh county created in the Florida Territory. It was established in December 1824.

Mosquito County, established in December 1824, disappeared from the roster of counties when it was renamed Orange County in January 1845.

Spanish explorer Hernando De Soto is honored by having two counties named after him--Hernando and DeSoto counties.

The FSU Flying High Circus

The FSU Flying High Circus is the only collegiate circus in the world. The circus was started in 1947 by Jack Haskin, then a faculty member in the Recreation Department. He began the circus out of a desire to find an activity in which men and women could participate together. It is primarily an aerial and stage presentation consisting of 80-100 students flying, balancing, juggling, swinging, skating and clowning under a large canvas tent. Students do their own rigging, put up the big top, change the equipment for each act, spread the sawdust, and string lights, all for only one physical education credit hour, or, as volunteer worker/performers. The circus has toured Canada, the Dominican Republic, and the West Indies, and appeared on "CBS Sports Spectacular," "ABC's Wide World of Sports," and "PM Magazine." The circus is administered through the Office of the Vice President for Student Affairs.

The Seminoles

The name "Seminoles" for Florida State University athletic teams was chosen by a vote of the student body in 1947. The Seminoles, a relatively recent tribe, originated in the early eighteenth century when Lower and Upper Creek Indians moved into North Florida after the region had been depopulated of the original Indian inhabitants of the area, principally the Timucuans and the Apalachee. The word Seminole is generally believed to have come into use during the British period of Florida history, 1763-1784. In time, the word was applied to all Florida Indians, whether of Creek origin or not.

The origin of the Seminole tribe is with both the Upper and Lower Creeks who had fought a bitter war in the Alabama territory in 1813-1814. After this war, which culminated in Andrew Jackson's defeat of the Red Stick faction of the Upper Creeks, the remnants of the Red Sticks migrated south into Florida. These new Indians, as well as earlier arriving Lower and Upper Creeks came to be called Seminoles, a Creek word meaning either "runaway" or "seceder" (from the Creek Federation) or, as another source would have it, from the Creek words "Istis Seminole" meaning "wild people." While the Upper and Lower Creeks had been bitter enemies in the Alabama territory, they lived in harmony in Florida, widely dispersed over the territory, without any central authority.

Panama City Campus: Fall 1988

The Panama City Campus of The Florida State University began operations in 1967 when three universities started offering courses to area students. The University of West Florida was assigned to administer the center in 1971, and that administrative responsibility was transferred to The Florida State University in July 1982. The Bay County Commission donated a 20-acre waterfront site for constructing new campus facilities to replace buildings loaned by the Bay County School Board and Gulf Coast Community College. Construction of the new campus facilities began in 1983, with the new buildings ready for use during the 1987 Spring Semester.

Students on campus are served by a permanent faculty and staff of 30 people, plus additional faculty who travel on a regular basis from the Tallahassee campus. About 85 percent of the courses offered at the campus are taught by Tallahassee faculty, thus offering area students the same course structure, content, and expertise available to Tallahassee campus students.

Undergraduate degree programs offered at the Panama City campus include accounting, management, marketing, advertising/public relations, business communications, general communication arts, criminology, elementary education, English education, math education, nursing, psychology, social science interdisciplinary, and fashion merchandising.

The articulation agreement between the Florida junior/community colleges and the nine state universities enables students to complete an associate in arts degree at Gulf Coast Community College, or any other Florida community college, and be admitted automatically into available upper division programs for the last two years of coursework at Florida State's Panama City Campus.

The Center for Professional Development & Public Service

The Center for Professional Development and Public Service is the University's central support unit for continuing education and other educational outreach activities offered on behalf of the University. The Center's mission is to bring together outstanding resources from the University and beyond to meet current and evolving learning needs of individuals and organizations in Florida and the nation. The Center provides a system of integrated services to program sponsors and clients, including technical assistance, consultation, needs assessment, and a full range of program development, meeting management, and evaluation services. The Center also operates the Office of Adult Student Information and Services (OASIS) which provides a wide range of assistance and support services for the returning student.

The Center administers all non-credit continuing education programs which are offered on the campus or in off-campus locations convenient to participants. The Center also administers all off-campus credit courses and degree programs, and credit institutes which may be conducted either on or off-campus. For non-credit programs, the Center provides, on a fee-for-service basis, essential services to program sponsors and participants, as well as a complete range of optional program development and management services, and other technical assistance which program sponsors may request. Similar services are available to sponsoring academic units and participating faculty for the design and delivery of off-campus credit programs and other credit activities which fall within the Center's area of responsibility. The Center maintains an Office of Continuing Education on the Panama City Campus to administer non-credit programs in that area. It also operates the University's Center for Intensive English Studies.

The Center operates, for the University, the Florida State Conference Center, which provides the University and the State of Florida with a specially designed facility for hosting educational conferences, meetings, workshops, and related activities. The Center also operates the Wakulla Springs Lodge and Conference Center located in the Edward Ball Wakulla Springs State Park 15 miles south of Tallahassee. In addition to operating these Conference Centers, the Center for Professional Development and Public Service has a staff of experienced conference consultants available to help in conference planning and management. These conference facilities enhance the University's capabilities and resources to meet the expanding market for professional conference and meeting management services.

The Florida State Conference Center is capable of C Band and Ku Band Teleconferencing. It is equipped with video and speaker feeds in all rooms, has two Darome units, redundant equipment, 21-inch monitors and four-foot projection screens. As a member of National University Teleconferencing Network (NUTN) the center has access to all DomSats and has conducted a number of teleconferences for the past four years. The Florida State Conference Center also houses a microcomputer laboratory equipped with 23 IBM XT PCs on which a variety of current training programs are conducted.

Through its Continuing Studies Unit, the Center provided administrative support for 864 credit offerings in 1987-88, including regular credit courses, credit institutes, and special summer workshops conducted in: Florida; London and Oxford, England; and Florence, Italy.

Supercomputer Computations Research Institute

The Supercomputer Computations Research Institute (SCRI) is an interdisciplinary program set up to do research in computational science, train researchers from various academic disciplines and provide them access to a supercomputer. This is accomplished by gathering together active researchers in science, engineering, mathematics, and computer science who are currently supercomputer users. Their interactions and exchange of ideas enhance research in the various disciplines, and can lead to the discovery and propagation of new computational techniques.

Authorized by Congress and initiated in 1984, this program was a response to the need to upgrade research capabilities in fields which require large-scale computers in universities throughout the U.S. It was established at Florida State University as a cooperative venture between Florida State University and the U.S. Department of Energy's Office of Energy Research, Control Data Corporation of St. Paul, Minnesota, and the State of Florida.

As of March 1985, a CYBER 205 with four-million words of memory and two pipes, accompanied by 12 units of on-line disc storage with 7.2 gigabytes and four on-line tape drives was available for use. It has a secondary file storage of 20 gigabytes implemented by a CDC CYBER 835 acting as a file server. Located off campus at the Tallahassee research park, the CYBER 205 is connected by a coax cable to the CYBER 760, the on-campus front-end computer.

In January 1987 the Institute became the nation's first recipient of the ETA-10 Supercomputer, which consists of four CPU's with four million words of local memory each and a computational power ten to fifteen times that of the CYBER 205. The CPU's are accompanied by 128 million words of shared memory.

During the Fall of 1987, a Digital Equipment Corporation VAX 8700 computer system with 64 megabytes of memory was installed with the existing VAX 11/780 in a cluster configuration in support of the communication and front-end requirement for the ETA-10 system. In addition, in December 1987 a mass storage system of 60 gigabytes was added which is accessed through an IBM 4381.

The SCRI is a 50 plus member body of application research scientists, visiting scientists, technicians, software specialists and administrative personnel. About 70 percent of the Institute's annual budget of approximately $16 million is provided by the Office of Energy Research. Florida State University and the State of Florida contribute roughly 24% of the budget, while the Control Data Corporation and ETA Systems, Inc. contribute about 6 percent.

Software projects in progress/planning include: research on vectorization techniques, vectorizer compiler development, techniques and tools for multiprocessing, vectorized and parallelized numerical methods and algorithms, fast partial differential equation solvers, and the establishment of supercomputer user libraries for various disciplines.

Research projects in progress by SCRI scientists and SCRI associates include: lattice gauge theory, data processing for high energy experimental particle physics, many-body problems, Monte Carlo techniques, event simulation, meteorology, oceanography, geophysical fluid dynamics, computational fluid dynamics, materials by design, and molecular dynamics.

The Institute arranges various forums for discussion, such as workshops and conferences, and offers visiting appointments for scientists and postdoctoral research associates to participate in the SCRI research program. Scientists interested in participating in the SCRI program or desiring access to its supercomputer resources should write to: Supercomputer Computations Research Institute, The Florida State University, Tallahassee, Florida 32306. Telephone (904) 644-1010.

The Division of Student Affairs provides a wide variety of services and programs to serve students' needs and to help them accomplish their educational and personal goals. These programs contribute to and support the formal academic program and enrich students' out-of-class experiences. The philosophy underlying the Student Affairs program is developmental in nature, promoting the socio-psychological growth of the total person. The program's goal is the development of each student into a self-reliant, self-actualizing person.

Specifically, the division's programs seek to:

- create an environment conducive to the growth of the individual student regardless of his/her background
- assist in the student's search for identity
- aid in the development of his/her academic and career goals
- encourage the formation of positive values
- assure that the student's needs are met through counseling, extra-curricular activities, and services.

This approach requires campus-wide cooperation and participation in the development, implementation, and evaluation of the division's programs and services.

FSU STUDENT LIFE: SOME HISTORICAL NOTES

Among the Rules of Conduct adopted by the board of education of the Seminary West of the Suwannee was the following: "No student will be allowed to treat anyone disrespectfully, disturb public worship or assemblies, get drunk, fight or quarrel, play cards, behave disorderly, frequent bar rooms, billiard rooms, bet, engage in disorderly companies, interfere with another's property, use insulting, profane or indecent language, carry swords, disks, bowie knives or pistols, or practice any habit which in the opinion of the Instructors will be prejudicial to his interest and good character."

Beginning in 1912, the classes were organized into the Odds and Evens for sports and other events. Girls graduating in odd years were Odds while those graduating in even years were assigned to Evens. Contests between the two sides culminated on the Thanksgiving weekend with plays, contests, and the traditional Thanksgiving meal. The tradition of Odds and Even continued in the 1950's.

Glossary

Academic Year -- The time period containing the academic sessions held during consecutive Fall and Spring semesters (currently August through April)

Administrative and Professional (A&P) -- A Board of Regents pay plan for middle and upper level administrative and professional positions in the State University System.

Board of Regents (BOR) -- A 13-member state board which governs the State University System (SUS). It is composed of the Commissioner of Education (ex officio), the chancellor of the SUS, 12 Florida citizens appointed by the Governor to nine-year terms, and one SUS student appointed annually.

CIP (Classification of Instruction Programs) Discipline Code -- These codes represent a nationally used, common taxonomy for the classification of higher education degree programs. The CIP classification describes content of the programs at three levels with each providing varying levels of detail.

Common Course Numbering System -- A statewide system of prefixes and numbers for courses developed in 1978 for all postsecondary and participating private institutions in Florida. Its purpose is to make transferring easier by identifying equivalent courses, all of which carry the same prefix and last three digits, although the title of the course may vary at different institutions.

Contracts and Grants (C&G) Budget -- A budget entity which deals primarily with sponsored research activities and federally funded educational grants.

Educational and General (E&G) Budget -- A budget entity which provides instructional programs leading to formal degrees, and for research and public service programs.

Faculty -- A person appointed to a position defined by the Board of Regents Personnel Classification system as faculty; categories include Professor, Associate Professor, Assistant Professor, and Instructor. Occupation Code ranges for traditional University faculty positions are from 9001-9015, 9020-9049, 9060-9110, 9115-9130, and 9153-9179. The collective bargaining agreement currently in force includes in the faculty population all Developmental Research School (university lab school) personnel, all University Librarian classifications, staff physicists, and the President.

Fiscal Year -- A 12-month period running from July 1 through the following June 30.

Florida Endowment Trust Fund for Eminent Scholars -- The Trust Fund established in the State Treasury for Eminent Scholars provides the opportunity for each state university to match and receive challenge grants to create endowments for selected eminent scholars to occupy Chairs within the university.

Full-time Equivalent (FTE) Student Calculation Factors -- Under the semester system, the factors for calculating the number of student FTE's generated are as follows:

Fall and

Spring Terms: 15 undergraduate student credit hours equal 1 FTE;
12 graduate student credit hours equal 1 FTE.

Summer Term: 10 undergraduate student credit hours equal 1 FTE;
8 graduate student credit hours equal 1 FTE

Full-time Equivalent (FTE) Employee -- A numerical designator for an appointment based on 100% for full time. An FTE for a full-time employee is 1.00. (Two people each serving in half-time faculty positions would equal, together, one FTE faculty position.)

Full-time Equivalent (FTE) Student -- A measure of student enrollment based on the number of student credit hours for which students enroll. See definitions of FTE (above) for other FTE equivalencies.

Full-Time Filled Position -- A position in which a person or persons are appointed at a total FTE of 1.00.

Major Code -- A six-digit number assigned to an area of study designated as the student's major field. (The diploma given by the university indicates the degree awarded and the Board of Regents approved degree program.)

Major Field of Study -- Students are classified as majors according to their selection of a primary field of study. This field must be selected from BOR approved degree programs and university approved majors within each degree program.

Occupation Code -- A four-digit code which indicates the title and general description of the position to which a person is appointed. Occupation codes range from 0001 to 9179 and 9200 to 9499 for regular salaried positions. The range 9180-9199 is reserved for student related titles. Graduate assistants, post doctorates and fellows are appointed to classifications within this range. All codes within this latter range are paid through OPS funds. Faculty, A&P and USPS may be appointed on OPS in the entire range of occupation codes; this, however, is limited primarily to faculty appointments.

Operating Budget -- An expenditure plan developed for each fiscal year. The plan must conform to the annual allocation/appropriation and list estimated expenditures by budget category for the year.

Other Personal Services (OPS) -- This is one of two sources of salary funds. Persons paid from OPS are performing temporary work of some nature. There is no continuing obligation on the part of the state toward persons on OPS appointments.

Preliminary Headcount Enrollment -- The enrollment taken from the official data files of the university as of the end of the 28th calendar day of the term. This figure includes all students, fundable and non-fundable, who are on the Student Data Course File submitted to the Board of Regents.

State Fundable Student Credit Hours (SFSCH) -- Those student credit hours for which the University receives funding by the state. Not all student credit hours are fundable -- specifically, credit hours produced by some fee waivers are not state fundable.

Lower Level SCH: Hours generated by courses numbered 2999 and below.

Upper Level SCH: Hours generated by courses numbered 3000-4999.

Graduate Level SCH: Hours generated by courses numbered 5000 and above, except thesis and dissertation courses.

Thesis: Hours generated by courses numbered 5971.

Dissertation: Hours generated by courses numbered 6980.

Student -- A person who has actively entered into a relationship with an academic program of the University in an officially recognized capacity.
