

Overview

The Florida State University is a public, fully accredited, coeducational institution of the ten-member State University System of Florida. Located in Tallahassee, Florida's capital city, the University affords students and faculty opportunities for interaction with state and federal agencies for internships, research, and part-time employment, as well as a myriad of social, cultural, and recreational activities. The main campus is located on 463.4 acres in Tallahassee with other facilities located in Leon, Bay, Franklin, Sarasota, and Gadsden counties.

With 16 colleges and schools, students may take courses of study leading to the baccalaureate degree in 93 fields, to the master's degree in 99 fields, to the advanced master's/specialist degree in 28 fields, to the doctorate degree in 71 fields, and to the one professional degree. The academic divisions are the Colleges of Arts and Sciences, Business, Communication, Education, Engineering, Human Sciences, Law, and Social Science; and the Schools of Criminology and Criminal Justice, Information Studies, Motion Picture, Television, and Recording Arts, Music, Nursing, Social Work, Theatre, and Visual Arts and Dance.

Approximately 80 percent of the students enrolled at the university attend full time. Undergraduates comprise 75.5 percent and graduate students 18.7 percent of the total enrollment of 33,327 students in the Fall of 1999. The average age of all students is 23.8; of undergraduates, 21.5; and of graduate students, 31.1.

The State University System (SUS) operates under the supervision of the Florida Department of Education. The Florida State University is governed through the 13-member State Board of Regents which is composed of the Commissioner of Education (ex officio), and 12 Florida citizens, including one SUS student.

The Board of Regents is responsible for adopting system-wide rules and policies; planning for the system's future needs and development; reviewing and evaluating instructional, research, and service programs at the universities; coordinating program development among the nine member universities; and monitoring the fiscal performance of the universities.

Research and Special Programs

The Florida State University has built a reputation as a strong research center in both the sciences and the humanities. It is expected that more than $100 million in external funds will be generated this year by the university faculty and administration as supplements to state funds used for research. These external funds are in the form of contracts and grants from private foundations, industries, and government agencies, and are used to support research, improve research facilities, and provide stipends for graduate students.

Florida State is well known in the natural sciences for its basic research programs in biology, chemistry, meteorology, nuclear science, oceanography, physics, and psychology. Strong basic and applied research programs are also found in computer science, geology, mathematics, and statistics.

As a nationally recognized center of excellence in graduate training in the visual and performing arts, the University offers professional training in music, theatre, and dance performance and theory.

In addition to on-campus programs, the University offers a wide variety of overseas study opportunities for students during the regular academic year, as well as in special summer programs. These include the Florence, Italy, Torremolinos, Spain, and London, England programs during the academic year; the Florence Summer Program; a Panama Canal Branch Campus; Hospitality Administration Summer Program in Switzerland; Summer Term in Law at Oxford, England, and the University of the West Indies; San Jose, Costa Rica Summer Program; field excavations in Chianti, Italy; an SUS fall semester program specializing in international business in the Netherlands; two SUS Linkage institutes: FLORICA, in Costa Rica, and the Florida-France Linkage Institute; summer programs in Modern Languages at Moscow, Russia; Paris, France; and Madrid, Spain; Beyond Borders programs in Turrialba, Costa Rica, and Prague, Czech Republic.

Florida State University has both an Air Force and an Army Reserve Officers' Training Corps (ROTC) program. FSU students may apply for admission to the Navy ROTC Program offered through Florida Agricultural and Mechanical University.

The Florida State University has a large number of computers that are used for instruction and research. In addition to centrally operated systems and public laboratories, many FSU colleges, departments, and research institutes operate computers and laboratories for their own use. Computers at FSU are linked by a campus-wide fiber optic network. The network and centralized computing services are run by the Academic Computing and Network Services organization, which is located at Innovation Park.

Robert Manning Strozier Library, with over 2 million books and periodicals and a special microfilm collection of over 4 million microforms, complements the research facilities on campus, as do the Dirac Science Library and the Law Library, separate specialized library facilities.

Among the special programs which have won national or international distinction in research are the Program in Nuclear Research, Institute for Molecular Biophysics, FSU Marine Laboratory, Center for Music Research, Learning Systems Institute, FSU Proton-Induced X-Ray Emission (PIXE) Laboratory, FSU Institute of Science and Public Affairs, and the School of Motion Picture, TV, and Recording Arts.

In 1990, the National Science Foundation announced that FSU would be the home of the National High Magnetic Field Laboratory. A joint project with the University of Florida and Los Alamos National Laboratory, the lab became the nation's top center for research on magnets millions of times more powerful than the Earth's magnetic field. This facility is the first national lab to be located in Florida and went into operation in 1994. Research at the lab is conducted in such diverse fields as biology, materials science, medicine, physics, chemistry, engineering and superconductivity.

Seal of The Florida State University

The seal of The Florida State University, which was designed by the combined talents of the Art and Classics Departments, has its origins in the first decade of the 20th century during the administration of President Albert A. Murphree. It was updated in the year 2000 to accurately reflect the year that Florida State University was created, 1851.

The torches of the seal symbolize the fire given to man by the Greek god Prometheus. This fire enabled man to elevate himself above the animals and become human. The torches of the FSU seal symbolize the purpose of the University: the passing on of knowledge from generation to generation. The torch on the left is Vires: strength of all kinds, physical, moral and intellectual. The center torch is Artes: that which we acquire-knowledge which transcends skills, the appreciation of beauty. The torch on the right is Mores: customs, character and tradition. Through these three ideals the student is educated physically, mentally and morally.

The State of Florida and the City of Tallahassee

Thousands of years of Indian occupancy preceded the European discovery of the Florida peninsula. An estimated 100,000 native Americans were living here at the time of its discovery by Juan Ponce de Leon in early 1513. As Ponce de Leon's arrival coincided with the Spring Pascua Florida festivities in Spain, he named the new land "Florida," which meant "filled with flowers." La Florida was also explored by another Spanish adventurer - Hernando de Soto. It is believed that de Soto and his army of over 600 men spent the winter of 1539-40 in an abandoned Apalachee Indian village located in what is now the city of Tallahassee.

Prior to 1821, Florida had consisted of two Spanish colonies that were ceded to Great Britain in the settlement of the Seven Years' War (1756-1763). In 1821 President James Monroe appointed Andrew Jackson as territorial governor. One of the new governor's first acts was to organize the territory into two counties, Escambia and St. Johns, with the Suwannee River serving as the dividing line. (In 1822, two more counties were added - Duval in the east and Jackson in the west). The legislative council met at Pensacola, the capital of West Florida, in 1822, and at St. Augustine, the former capital of East Florida, in 1823. As these two chief settlements of the territory were separated by 400 miles of wilderness, it was desirable to select a central site as a capital. Two commissioners appointed by Governor William Pope Duval selected the then uninhabited area known as Tallahassee as the site for the permanent capital and the governor proclaimed it the capital on March 4, 1824. The territorial council met there for the first time in November of that year. Tallahassee had been the site of Indian settlements prior to and during the Colonial Era. Its name is a Creek Indian phrase generally believed to mean "old town" or "old fields." Florida was admitted to the union as the twenty-seventh state on March 3, 1845.

The Florida State University

Plans for higher education in Florida began in 1823 when the legislative council of the territory set aside for sale one township in East Florida and one in West Florida to support seminaries. In 1851, the State Legislature authorized the all-male Seminary West of the Suwannee. The property of the Florida Institute in Tallahassee (created in 1851) was offered to the state as a site for its new western seminary. The Legislature accepted the offer and the first classes were held in 1857. In 1858 females were admitted in a separate department called the Female Institute which operated, with its own Principal, until 1882 when the Seminary became coeducational.

During the Civil War, the 1863 Legislature passed an act changing the institution's name to the Florida Military and Collegiate Institute. Cadets from this institute fought in the Battle of Natural Bridge south of Tallahassee in 1865. As a result of this participation, Florida State University's ROTC unit is entitled to add a battle streamer to its ROTC unit flag. It is one of only three university ROTC units in the U.S. to have this distinction. In summer 1865, Federal troops occupied the Seminary buildings. The Female Department, inactive during the war, resumed activity in 1866. In 1901 the name of the West Florida Seminary was changed to the Florida State College, and the first master's degree was offered the following year.

In 1905, through the Buckman Act, the Legislature reorganized higher education in Florida, establishing a school for male students in Gainesville, and a school for female students in Tallahassee. Florida State College in Tallahassee became the female school and was named the Florida Female College. This name was objectionable to friends and supporters of the college, thus in 1909 it was renamed the Florida State College for Women (F.S.C.W.).

In 1946, a flood of applicants seeking admission to the University of Florida created a crisis situation as the number desiring admission was one-third more than could be accommodated. As a result, a branch accommodating 500 men was opened in Tallahassee at Dale Mabry Field, a deactivated army installation. In 1947, the Legislature took further action and designated both the University of Florida and the Florida State College for Women as coeducational, at the same time changing the name of F.S.C.W. to The Florida State University.

The Mission Statement of The Florida State University

The Florida State University is a comprehensive, graduate-research university with a liberal arts base. It offers undergraduate, graduate, advanced graduate and professional programs of study, conducting extensive research, and providing service to the public in accord with its state-wide mission. The University's primary role is to serve as a center for advanced graduate and professional studies while emphasizing research and providing excellence in undergraduate programs.

In accordance with the University's mission, faculty members have been selected for their commitment to excellence in teaching, their ability in research and creative activity, and their interest in public service. Among the faculty are recipients of many national and international honors, who have included four Nobel laureates and eight members of the National Academy of Sciences.

Given its history, location, and accomplishments, the Florida State University does not expect major changes in its mission during the next decade. Rather, it sees further refinement of that mission with concentration on its strong liberal arts base and on quality in its teaching, research, and public service. The University has established its reputation upon areas of strength by building excellence in the four components of the Science Development Grant - physics, chemistry, psychobiology (now neuroscience), and statistics - together with the physical, biological, earth, and mathematical sciences closely related to them. Excellence in these and related areas, particularly materials science, resulted in relocation of the National High Magnetic Field Laboratory to Florida State University. Enhancement of the fine and performing arts began with the establishment of the Center for Music Research in the already prestigious School of Music and includes prominent programs in Theatre, Dance and the Visual Arts. Within the area of humanities, the Departments of English, Philosophy, Religion, and Humanities are particularly distinguished. Special emphasis in the policy sciences has been directed to the College of Social Sciences' Departments of Economics, Geography, Political Science, Urban and Regional Planning, and School of Public Administration and Policy and to its Policy Science Center and the public policy components of the School of Criminology, the School of Social Work, and the College of Education.

The University's location in the State's capital provides great opportunity for service and interaction among governmental agencies and the social science and professional schools, especially the Colleges of Business and Law and the Pepper Institute on Aging and Public Policy. Special resources, such as the Supercomputer Computations Research Institute and the Florida State Conference Center, enhance its ability to deliver such service. The University is strongly committed to its mission in international education. It provides study-abroad opportunities for its students and faculty through the Florence and London Study Centers, which it operates for the State University System, and through programs in Barbados; Costa Rica; the Republic of Panama; Switzerland; Russia; Cetamura, Italy; Oxford, England, and in Central and Eastern Europe. The University co-sponsors Florida bi-national linkage institutes in Costa Rica and France.

As a major comprehensive residential state university, Florida State attracts students from every county in Florida, every state in the nation, and more than 100 foreign countries. The University is committed to high admission standards that ensure quality in its student body, which currently includes some 192 National Merit and National Achievement scholars, as well as students with superior creative talents. It also provides alternative admission and highly successful retention programs for special student populations. Most students pursue a full-time course of study in normal progression from high school or undergraduate institutions. Graduate students, who comprise 20 percent of the student body, are enrolled in 191 graduate degree programs, of which 67 covering 120 fields are doctoral. The median age of all students is 22, and about 24 percent, mostly graduate students, are over 25 years old.

Note: The current mission statement was released in 1993, and is quoted verbatim. It contains information that was correct when written, but may have changed slightly since then.

Faculty Senate

The nature of faculty involvement in the governance system of Florida State University is set forth in the Constitution of the university, which designates the Faculty Senate as the basic legislative body of the institution. This structure has been in place since May, 1931, when an amendment to the institution's constitution establishing the Senate was adopted by the general faculty and approved by the Board of Control of the state. A number of major amendments have been made since that time relating to elections, committees and other matters. Prior to 1974 the President of the university was the presiding officer of the Senate, but an amendment that year changed the procedure to stipulate that the Senate elect annually its own President from the elected Senators comprising the body.

On May 19, 1998 the Senate celebrated the 50th anniversary of the ratification of the FSU constitution by the faculty of the Florida State University.

The Faculty Senate is composed of at least one elected representative from each college and school and one representative each from the Librarians and the Developmental Research School. Except for the two latter representatives, only full-time instructors, assistant professors, associate professors, and professors are eligible for representation in and election to the Senate. Senators serve two-year terms which begin at the April meeting of the Senate, at which time the President of the Senate is elected. The Steering Committee is composed of seven members elected by the voting members of the Senate to staggered two-year terms; the President of the Senate serves as chair of the committee.

The Faculty Senate formulates measures for maintaining a comprehensive educational policy and for maximum use of the University's intellectual resources. It determines and defines University-wide policies on academic matters, including Liberal Studies policy, admission, grading standards, and requirements for the awarding of degrees. The Senate may also formulate opinions on any subject of interest to the University and adopt resolutions thereon.

The Program for Instructional Excellence

Established in 1990, The Program for Instructional Excellence (PIE) strives to fulfill its mission to improve the quality of instruction and enhance instructor performance at Florida State University by offering an expanding array of services to 1,200 teaching assistants (TAs).

Goals and Objectives of the program include the following:

1. Enhance overall teaching of TAs and faculty.
 2. Improve the quality of undergraduate and graduate instruction by improving the teaching skills of TAs.
 3. Orient TAs to the University, its resources and its services.
 4. Provide international graduate assistants with classroom skills for effective teaching in a U.S. university; provide information about U.S. cultural traits as they pertain to cross-cultural communication in the classroom.
 5. Establish mentoring relationships between experienced TAs and new TAs.
 6. Provide teaching and service experiences designed to prepare graduate students for the range of responsibilities they will meet as new professors.
 7. Prepare graduate students for future faculty roles.
- T University-wide orientations are held during the week preceding the Fall semester. Sessions include: how to prepare for teaching the first class, evaluating student performance, preparing and giving presentations, professional development, employing technology in the classroom, and a variety of topical issues.
- T Workshops and panel discussions dealing with issues relevant to instructors who teach in FSU classrooms are held during the Fall and Spring semesters. Topics include employing technology in the classroom, professional development, student evaluation, and diversity issues.
- T The Teaching Associate program uses senior TAs, nominated by their departments and selected and trained by PIE, to design and develop TA training programs in their departments, and to serve as presenters and small group leaders in university-wide programs.
- T PIE directs the Preparing Future Faculty (PFF) program. PFF is a nationally sponsored program which provides graduate students with the experience of working at a variety of different institutions. Participating institutions are FSU, Florida A&M University, Tallahassee Community College, Bainbridge College, Rollins College, and Thomas College.
- T PIE conducts a Fall Workshop for faculty who are TA supervisors. Departments can access information establishing departmental programs in two pamphlets published by PIE: "Teaching Assistant Supervisor's Handbook, 2nd Edition" and "Teaching in the Disciplines: A Departmental Option in Graduate Student Preparation and Teaching Assistant Training".
- T A consultant from PIE is available to discuss, on an individual basis, any aspect of the teaching assignment with instructors.
- T Videotaping services are provided which range from taping short prepared teaching segments (microteaching) to taping entire class sessions.
- T Teaching at FSU, 2nd Edition, a resource book available to instructors, conveys information on policies, procedures, and teaching techniques. Fall, Spring, and Summer newsletters are published.
- T A Resource Center, with written and video materials on teaching and related topics, is available for use in the office.
- T Supervised Teaching Program: The Academic Profession
The Program for Instructional Excellence offers departments five Supervised Teaching modules to train TAs for immediate duties as undergraduate instructors and to prepare graduate students for future faculty roles.
Module One provides information and guidance in teaching to graduate students responsible for instruction in undergraduate courses at Florida State University. Students will design a course and write a syllabus.
Module Two focuses on designing and implementing learning activities in the discipline.
Module Three focuses on professional development and preparing for future faculty roles.
Module Four focuses on the pedagogical aspects of the media and distance learning concepts.
Module Five is the Preparing Future Faculty program.

Students are followed through the end of summer so that each year begins with fall and ends with summer semester. The number re-enrolled is the number of students from the original fall cohort that were enrolled in the fall, spring or summer semester of the year indicated. The percent graduated is cumulative. Retention includes the number who re-enrolled plus the graduates of previous years.

* The structure of the College of Human Sciences changed in Spring 1995. The Home Economics Education department was merged with the formally designated Home and Family Life Department to form the Family and Child Sciences department. However, some student credit hours were still attributed to the now defunct Home Economics Education department.

*FSU returned to a co-educational institution in 1947 after having been a women's college since 1909.

Panama City Campus, Fall 1999

The Panama City Campus of The Florida State University began operations in 1967 when three universities started offering courses to area students. The University of West Florida was assigned to administer the campus in 1971, and that administrative responsibility was transferred to The Florida State University in July, 1982. The Bay County Commission donated a 26-acre waterfront site for constructing new campus facilities to replace buildings loaned by the Bay County School Board and Gulf Coast Community College. Construction of the new campus facilities began in 1983, and the new buildings were ready for use during the 1987 Spring Semester.

Students on campus are served by a permanent faculty and staff of 55 people, plus additional faculty who travel on a regular basis from the Tallahassee campus. About 80 percent of the courses offered at the campus are taught by Tallahassee faculty, thus offering area students the same course structure, content, and expertise available to Tallahassee campus students.

FSU BANDS have a long and distinguished history, appearing frequently at regional and national conferences. Their performances have been praised by such leading figures as Aaron Copland, Karel Husa, Vincent Persichetti, Gordon Jacob, Fisher Tull, Clare Grundman, Leslie Bassett, Morton Gould, Frederick Fennell, Per Lyng, Keith Brion, Timothy Renish, Steve Stucky, David Maslanka, William Penn, and Samuel Adler. The bands can be heard on nationally distributed Golden Crest records and Pro Arte CD's and cassettes. They frequently perform world and American premieres and are active in a variety of recording projects and consortia that include such distinguished figures as Robin Holloway, Ellen Taaffe Zwillich, Gunther Schuller, Sir Michael Tippett, John Harbison, Fridges Hidas, and Adam Klemens.

THE SYMPHONIC AND CONCERT BANDS maintain an active performance schedule on campus and in the community. The Symphonic Band often represents the School of Music at major professional conferences. Membership is open to all university students by audition and is offered fall and spring semesters. Concert Band is offered only during the spring semester.

THE WIND ORCHESTRA engages in professional level study of wind literature important to contemporary performing practices. As with the Chamber Winds, the instrumentation is determined by the repertoire. Performers rotate with principal assignments. Many American and world premieres have been presented by this ensemble.

THE CHAMBER WINDS is a multi-faceted organization which studies and performs the finest in wind chamber music. Instrumentation ranges from the traditional Viennese octet to larger ensembles of as many as 16 players. The instrumentation is always determined by the repertoire selected for performance. There are two chamber wind ensembles. The Graduate Chamber Winds consists of graduate assistants from the applied studios. The Undergraduate Chamber Winds is an auditioned group of upperclassmen.

THE FSU JAZZ ENSEMBLES have received critical acclaim for their high performance standards and their creative approach to big band jazz. Literature includes both traditional as well as contemporary works. The ensembles also read and perform student compositions and arrangements. An active performance and touring schedule is maintained.

THE CAMPUS BAND consists of students who simply enjoy playing quality band music in a relaxed, non-auditioned environment. Campus Band is offered fall and spring semesters.

THE MARCHING CHIEFS, one of the largest university marching bands in the country, is comprised of FSU students from virtually every academic department within the University. They have gained national and international recognition as "the band that never lost a half-time" (Sports Illustrated). Past performances, seen and heard by millions, include the Sun, Gator, Tangerine (now Citrus), Peach, Fiesta, Sugar, Cotton and Orange Bowls. In 1974 they traveled to Syria on a State Department sponsored visit to perform at the International Trade Fair. The Chiefs perform at all Seminole home football games, local parades, selected away games, and appear at the annual post-season bowl game.

CHIEFLY BRASS generates the excitement which fills the Civic Center and Tully Gym at Seminole basketball games. Students representing a variety of academic disciplines perform a highly stylized repertoire. With strong men's and women's basketball programs, Chiefly Brass can be heard often on the major networks and at post-season tournaments.

There has been an FSU Flying High Circus for almost as long as there has been a Florida State University. When the Florida State College for Women went coeducational in 1947, one of the new faculty members was Jack Haskin. As a high school coach in Pontiac, Illinois, Haskin had staged student gymnastic exhibitions. He wanted to start an activity at the new university which would allow men and women to participate together. His idea was the circus.

The Flying High Circus is a self-supporting activity. No student activity fees, tuition payments, university or state funds go towards circus activities. Unlike many other athletic endeavors, the students receive no tuition waivers or university scholarships for their long hours of practice or the nationally famous shows that bring credit to FSU.

The acts in the Flying High Circus have evolved from "circus activity" to "circus professionalism." Performances are often of so high a caliber that professional contracts are sometimes offered to student performers, especially on the flying trapeze. In the circus, you will see tricks attempted and completed that are more difficult than many you would see in other American or European circuses. Examples include the triple somersault on the flying trapeze (accomplished by two performers at FSU), the seven man pyramid on the high wire (which has only been performed by two other groups), double back somersaults on the skypole and many more. Some acts are unique to the FSU Circus or are only done rarely elsewhere such as triple aerial high casting and three-la ne breakaway. Other acts are traditional circus classics. There are no animal acts in the Circus.

Few of the student performers had any previous circus training before coming to Florida State, although some have had related training such as springboard diving or gymnastics. Many receive their first introduction to the circus through the one-hour course on circus activities offered for credit by the university, but more enter the circus as a result of personal contact with other circus members. Training for the various acts is provided by one full-time coach, a member of the FSU Circus as a student, and a staff of paid and volunteer student assistants. Different acts are added to the show or removed from the show as performers with particular strengths and talents join the circus, learn new acts and different tricks, and then graduate. No two shows are alike.

A significant difference from professional circuses is the use of safety nets and safety lines. These will not help a performer complete a trick, but they do provide an extra margin of security for the student performers. The FSU Circus emphasizes the performances, not the risks. An additional measure of safety is provided by having the students do all the rigging. Since the performers rig their own acts in practice, they become more aware of the importance of correct rigging since they will be working on equipment that they have set up. Because of these safety features, the use of progressive learning techniques, and the high caliber of the students involved, the Flying High Circus maintains a high reputation for safety.

And, yes, they really do it "just for fun." Only one semester hour of credit for the circus activities course can be earned by an undergraduate on a one-time basis and many performers have never taken the course. The participants work on their own time practicing at the circus lot after classes or working on conditioning or juggling skills at home in the evenings and on the weekends. In addition, they must maintain a "C" average to appear in the home shows on campus and "C+" average to travel on the road shows, far above that required for other athletic endeavors. Yes, grades are not a problem; their collective average has always been one of the highest for students in any extracurricular activity in the University, even though many of the students are in demanding fields such as pre-medicine, nursing, computer science and accounting.

Academic Year - Usually, consecutive Fall and Spring semesters, currently August through April; sometimes, however, Summer semester is included in the term "academic year." In Florida, the Summer term precedes Fall and Spring semesters in the school year.

Administrative and Professional (A&P) - A Board of Regents pay plan for middle and upper level administrative and professional positions in the State University System.

Articulation Agreement - The articulation agreement between all 28 Florida junior/community colleges and the ten state universities enables students to complete an associate in arts degree at any Florida community college and be admitted automatically into available upper division programs for the last two years of coursework at FSU's Panama City Campus or any other university in the SUS.

Board of Regents (BOR) - A 13-member state board which governs the State University System (SUS). It is composed of the Commissioner of Education (ex officio), the Chancellor of the SUS, 12 Florida citizens, and one SUS student appointed annually.

CIP (Classification of Instruction Programs) Discipline Code - These codes represent a nationally used, common taxonomy for the classification of higher education degree programs. The CIP classification describes content of the programs at three levels with each providing varying levels of detail.

Common Course Numbering System - A statewide system of prefixes and numbers for courses developed in 1978 for all postsecondary and participating private institutions in Florida. Its purpose is to make transferring easier by identifying equivalent courses, all of which carry the same prefix and last three digits; the title of the course may vary at different institutions.

Contracts and Grants (C&G) Budget - A budget entity which deals primarily with sponsored research activities and federally funded educational grants.

Credit Hour - College credit is the type of credit assigned to courses or course equivalent learning that is part of an organized and specified program leading to a graduate, baccalaureate, or associate degree. One (1) college credit is based on the learning expected from the equivalent of fifteen (15) fifty-minute periods of classroom instruction; with credits for such things as laboratory instruction, internships, and clinical experience determined by the institution based on the proportion of direct instruction to the laboratory exercise, internship hours, clinical practice hours (Source: 6A-10.033 (1)(a), FAC).

Educational and General (E&G) Budget - A budget entity which provides instructional programs leading to formal degrees, and for research and public service programs.

Faculty - A person appointed to a position defined by the Board of Regents Personnel Classification system as faculty; categories include Professor, Associate Professor, Assistant Professor, and Instructor. The collective bargaining agreement currently in force includes in the faculty population all Developmental Research School (university lab school) personnel, all University Librarian classifications, staff physicists, and the President.

Fiscal Year - A 12-month period running from July 1 through the following June 30.

Florida Endowment Trust Fund for Eminent Scholars - The Trust Fund established in the State Treasury for Eminent Scholars provides the opportunity for each state university to match and receive challenge grants to create endowments for selected eminent scholars to occupy Chairs within the university.

FTIC (first-time-in-college) - An entering freshman, or a first-year student. Any student entering with fewer than 12 hours of college credit is classified as an FTIC.

Full-time Equivalent (FTE) Student Calculation Factors - Under the semester system, the factors for calculating the number of student FTE's generated are as follows:

Fall and Spring Terms:	15 undergraduate student credit hours equal 1 FTE; 12 graduate student credit hours equal 1 FTE.
Summer Term:	10 undergraduate student credit hours equal 1 FTE; 8 graduate student credit hours equal 1 FTE

Full-Time Equivalent (FTE) Employee - A numerical designator for an appointment based on 100% for full time. An FTE for a full-time employee is 1.00. (Two people each serving in half-time faculty positions would equal, together, one FTE faculty position.)

Full-Time Equivalent (FTE) Student - A measure of student enrollment based on the number of student credit hours for which students enroll. See definitions of FTE student for other FTE equivalencies.

Full-Time Filled Position - A position in which a person or persons are appointed at a total FTE of 1.00.

IPEDS (Integrated Postsecondary Education Data System) - IPEDS is the core postsecondary education data collection program in the U.S. Department of Education's National Center for Education Statistics (NCES). It was designed to help NCES meet its mandate to report full and complete statistics on the condition of postsecondary education in the United States. It is a single, comprehensive data collection system developed to encompass all institutions and organizations whose primary purpose is to provide postsecondary education. The IPEDS system is built around a series of interrelated surveys to collect institution-level data in such areas as enrollment, program completions, faculty and staff, and financing.

Major Code - A six-digit number assigned to an area of study designated as the student's major field. (The diploma given by the University indicates the degree awarded and the Board of Regents approved degree program.)

Major Field of Study - Students are classified as majors according to their selection of a primary field of study. This field must be selected from BOR approved degree programs and university approved majors within each degree program.

Occupation Code - A four-digit code which indicates the title and general description of the position to which a person is appointed. Occupation codes range from 0001 to 9179 and 9199 to 9499 for regular salaried positions. The range 9180-9198 is reserved for student related titles. Graduate assistants, post doctorates and fellows are appointed to classifications within this range. All codes within this latter range are paid through OPS funds. Faculty, A&P and USPS may be appointed on OPS in the entire range of occupation codes; this, however, is limited primarily to faculty appointments.

Operating Budget - An expenditure plan developed for each fiscal year. The plan must conform to the annual allocation/appropriation and list estimated expenditures by budget category for the year.

Other Personal Services (OPS) - This is one of two sources of salary funds. Persons paid from OPS are performing temporary work of some nature. There is no continuing obligation on the part of the state toward persons on OPS appointments.

Preliminary Headcount Enrollment - The enrollment taken from the official data files of the university as of the end of the 28th calendar day of the term. This figure includes all students, fundable and non-fundable, who are on the Student Data Course File submitted to the Board of Regents.
